

Artesia Vannote, RN

Artesia Vannote, RN is a Sparrow Hospital nurse on the Surgical Specialties Unit. Although Artesia holds many outstanding nursing qualities, her commitment to ensuring safe patient care stands out. She is part of the hospital's interdisciplinary fall prevention committee and has played a large role to prevent inpatient falls on her unit. In addition, she often serves as a preceptor to new nurses and passes on her understanding of fall prevention and other quality initiatives. Many new nurses seek to work on Artesia's unit because of her knowledge, kindness, and ability to teach. This year Artesia was nominated to receive Sparrow's Nursing Preceptor of the Year award. Artesia is going back to school to pursue a Bachelors of Nursing Science degree to further her nursing knowledge and career.